

Clark Lake End-of-Season Boating

Autumn is definitely here and it is time to consider bringing your boat to storage. All four boards remain in at the dam.

With the absence of rain, lake levels are relatively low (last gauge reading = 9.1), but at the level set by the DNR for this time of year. There is little rain expected in the next week. The west boat ramp dock will be taken out the middle of October (2nd or 3rd weekend) as arranged with the dock maintenance company.

The boards at the dam will be removed slowly starting mid-October to give time for the invertebrates and bivalves to burrow into the mud for the winter.
